4. Presentation/Discussion

4.1 Courtyard Waste Enclosure – 109 Old Kingston Road

Henry Kortekaas, Landscape Architect, shared images of the existing waste disposal area outside 109 Old Kingston Road. He noted that the site experiences significant illegal dumping due to being located out in the open. The waste disposal area was noted to be used by the condo residents and commercial properties. H. Kortekaas reviewed the site plan application and aerial photos of the site. The new proposal for the waste management area includes installation of EarthBins, where the majority of waste is stored, sealed and locked below-grade. The EarthBins will be used for restaurant liquid waste and disposal of garbage and green waste, with large recycle bins to be enclosed in a fenced area. The visual concept plan was presented. The area will be screened by a 5-foot fence with metal décor and cedar planting around the edge from the west and north sides. The removal of three parking stalls will be required for implementation.

Members posed questions relative to the methodology and security of the EarthBins, the design of the fence, and whether there were plans to develop the vacant lot adjacent to the property. H. Kortekaas noted that the existing masonry wall on the north side of the area will be reconstructed. Members inquired whether the new waste disposal site will be video-monitored. Cameras were noted to be currently installed. It was suggested that signage be erected acknowledging such as it may act as a further deterrent to dumping.

Moved By: B. Lampole
Seconded By: R. Cook

That the Heritage Advisory Committee approves the enclosure as designed, including a brown stained fence and signage installation acknowledging video surveillance.

4.2 600 Wartime Homes Plaque Wording

C. Chrus thanked those Members who had provided comments on the draft wording for the historical plaque that had been circulated since the May Meeting. Members discussed the proposed changes and put forward suggestions such as possibly to include the Town's crest on the plaque, and add the names of boundary streets/roads to the map engraved on the plaque.

Moved By: B. Lampole
Seconded By: B. Briggs

That the wording presented for the historic plaque in recognition of the 600 Wartime Homes be approved as amended, and read:

600 Wartime Homes

At the onset of World War II, the development of Defence Industries Limited (DIL), the largest munitions plant in the British Empire, was established on lands south of Highway 401 at Harwood Avenue in what was then Pickering Township. As the plant began to expand in 1941, housing accommodations were in short supply and administration at DIL appealed for help from the Federal Government. A new Crown Corporation called the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) had been formed to handle the housing shortage across Canada.

The construction of 600 wartime homes, located just north of Highway 401 at Harwood Avenue, began in January 1942 and was completed by the end of the year. The construction plan involved pre-fabricating the houses in panels, which were used to create the floors, walls, ceilings and roofs. This was all done on a site on Harwood Avenue. The panels were then moved to the lots and houses were built on concrete slabs.

The bulk of the homes were erected on the west side of Harwood Avenue, just north of Highway 401. The first homes were built between Queen Street and Ontario Street, over to Windsor Avenue. The plan was to dismantle the houses after the war in 1945, as they were built for temporary use. However, when the tenants who rented these houses from the government were given an eviction notice, they banded together and petitioned at Queen's Park in Toronto to save the homes. They were successful and given the first opportunity to buy the house at a cost of $3,600. The permanency in housing led to the formation of what would later become the Town of Ajax.

Workmen's Circle Colony

In 1926, 23 families of Workmen's Circle, the majority who were from Toronto, purchased this land and created a summer cottage area known as the Workmen's Circle Colony. The families built cottages on the west side of Duffins Creek and vacationed here during the summer months. Many of the children from the cottages would often attend the camp on the east side of Duffins Creek known as Camp Yungvelt.

Easy access to the creek provided exceptional swimming and recreational opportunities for the cottagers to enjoy. As Pickering Village was only two kilometres to the south along Church Street, the cottagers would often visit the area to shop.

The cottages remained in use until the 1980s; however as the properties passed on to the children and grandchildren of the original owners, the cottages were, more often than not, left unused.

This property was purchased by Coughlan Homes in 2001 and redeveloped as a condominium townhouse complex in 2016.

All photos have been provided by Workmen's Circle, Peretz School, Toronto.

Workmen's Circle

The land upon where this sub-division is located was the former home to the Workmen's Circle Colony, a summer cottage area that was established here from 1926 to the 1980s. The name "Workmen's Circle" comes from a Jewish Fraternal order that started in the United States in 1892 as a support organization to aid Jewish immigrants into the country. The organization was established in Toronto in 1908 and continues to promote Jewish culture and the Yiddish language in the Toronto area.

In 1926, 23 families of Workmen's Circle purchased 51 acres of land, spanning across the west and east sides of Duffins Creek at this location. The west side of the creek was used to establish a summer cottage area called the Workmen's Circle Colony. The east side of Duffins Creek formed Camp Yungvelt, Canada's first Jewish summer camp. The street name "Workmen's Circle" is in tribute to the history of this site.

These memory boards were a joint project by the Town of Ajax and Coughlan Homes to commemorate the significant history found at this site through the redevelopment of these lands.

Camp Yungvelt

Camp Yungvelt, Canada's first Jewish summer camp, was originally established on Lake Wilcox in Richmond Hill in 1925. A year later, the camp moved to the east bank of Duffins Creek, north of Rossland Road. It was comprised of two large tents and a lean-to-shack serving as a combined kitchen and dining room.

It was like any other summer camp, with programming focused on cultural and educational components, including lessons in reading and speaking Yiddish.

By 1937, the dining hall could seat up to 300 children and the recreation hall, which was used for concerts and lectures, could seat close to 1,000.

The camp consisted of eight cabins used for children from age's six to twelve, while the older boys and girls were housed in tents. Many of the children would return each summer, and several would continue on as camp councillors.

Campers would often go on row boat excursions in Duffins Creek or go swimming. A dam had been built to create a larger swimming pond for the children. In 1961, a swimming pool was built in an attempt to attract more campers.

As more summer camps began to open across Ontario, registration at Camp Yungvelt began to decline. The camp was closed and sold in 1971, after almost 45 years of continuous operation. Today the camp is now occupied by parkland and houses.

Summary:

One of the first families to settle in Audley was Richard Squire, an Englishman whom amongst others, farmed properties in and around Taunton and Audley Roads. The house is located on Squire Drive, named after the family and is nestled within the Deer Creek Golf Course. This is an excellent example of an ell-shaped Gothic Revival dwelling with the front of the house facing south (middle photo) while a kitchen wing projects out the back (top photo). Year Built: 1838

Heritage Classification: Listed

Summary:

This historic Neo-classical stone house was originally owned by Scotsman George McGillivray who was one of the original settlers in the hamlet of Audley. Since 1979, the property has been owned by the Stroud Family, of Stroud Farms, who have established an apple orchard on the front (south) part of the parcel. The stonework is quite varied with larger stones being used as cornerstones to support the structure. The dormer window and front porch were likely later additions and the windows and front door have been replaced. The house is well setback from Taunton Road with a tree lined driveway. A barn, silos and several outbuildings are located to the west of the dwelling.

The double-chimney breast at the gable ends are similar to those at 100 Old Kingston Rd – suggesting an earlier date than might appear at first glance. Small hipped-roof enclosed porch with single door and sidewalks is a later alteration. The brick has been clad with stucco and the windows replaced. This is a modest and unassuming building that could be improved by some attention to detail.
